

Manuel Arias is a PhD in Art History and member of the Cuerpo Facultativo de Conservadores de Museos 1992, having been the deputy director of the Museo Nacional de Escultura in Valladolid since 1993. He is also an Academic of the Real Academia de Bellas Artes of Valladolid Since 2008. In addition to the field of museology and the coordination of exhibitions, his lines of research focus on the history of art, the use of sources and the circulation of models, with different books and articles, especially on the Renaissance and the Baroque, and objects of study sculptors like Juan de Juni or Alonso Berruguete, on which has published in 2011 a monograph entitled Alonso Berruguete, Prometeo de la escultura. He is currently preparing a book on the artistic personality and work of Gaspar Becerra in Spain, to whom he has already devoted several studies. He has also worked in the field of collecting and patronage, studying the lineage of the Marquis of Astorga, or in projects such as the cataloging of artistic funds belonging to cloistered monasteries.
